Many Thanks to William Trapp and his Family for the excellent pancake breakfast. It was a pleasant and enjoyable meal.

There were two deaths and funerals this week. Joseph Newcaster on Monday and Virginia Franko on Saturday. They have gone to be with the Lord to share in his light and glory. To their family be assured of our prayers for them and for you in your time of loss and grief. May Their Memory be Eternal!!!

Gospel Reflection - Zacchaeus the Tax Collector  Is there hope for a rich publican? Zacchaeus is an undesirable of the first order. He is a citizen of the accursed city of Jericho, a publican and the very head of the publicans in his town; a man living off tax-extortions and illicit profits made in trading in pagan commodities; a very short man who must climb a tree to see our Lord; and to top it all off, he is rich incurring the hatred of the poor and the early Christian communities.

Nevertheless, Jesus makes this man a faithful son of Abraham. Imagine yourself adopting a juvenile delinquent to let him share your own children’s life and games!

Grace knows no walls of division and separation, and it can transfigure men and women. How many who were at table with Jesus and Zacchaeus that day would eventually be converted? Undoubtedly some guests would not be immediately receptive to the transfusion of God’s grace, but at least this is a beginning. The Savior is patient as well as merciful.

January 30 - THREE HOLY HIERARCHS  Among the works of Byzantine art that create a prayerful attitude on the part of the faithful are the icons of the Saints. The Icon of the Three Holy Hierarchs portrays the feast which is celebrated on January
